

Edward J. Blakely

Center for Sustainable
Suburban Development

B101 Highlander Hall
University of California Riverside
Riverside, CA 92521
(951) 827-7830

The New Collaborative Region

Suburbs and Cities Working on the Future

Jan. 27, 2006

San Bernardino Radisson, 295 No. E St.

Regions and Registration:

Luncheon speaker:

State Treasurer

Phil Angelides

With Governor Schwarzenegger's announced plans for a massive state bond issue for infrastructure, regional planning is at the forefront of state policy. Major infrastructure projects, whether freeways or water facilities, require thinking on a scale beyond that of any city or county. Yet, these plans will have an immense impact on the future of suburbs, counties and developers' projects around Southern California.

The New Collaborative Region: Suburbs and Cities Working on the Future will highlight regional planning experiences and successes from around the nation as well as California. Hear speakers from Portland, Ore., New York, Salt Lake City, Silicon Valley, Sacramento, Merced, and Orange and Riverside counties discuss their regional initiatives. It won't just be visions, but the nuts and bolts of building regional institutions and funding their projects. Phil Angelides, California State Treasurer and 2006 gubernatorial candidate, will be the luncheon speaker.

Registrations are going fast for the conference, to be held January 27 at the Radisson Hotel, 295 No. E St. in San Bernardino. For a full schedule, information updates and registration, please go to <http://cssd.ucr.edu> and click on the underlined headline or call (951) 827-7830. The conference (registration $125) will run from 8 a.m. to 3:45 pm and includes two meals. Late registration, beginning Monday Jan. 23, will cost $150.

The event is co-hosted by Cal Trans and the Inland Empire District Council of the Urban Land Institute.