LOGOLITEentertainment

March 29, 2006

To Whom It May Concern:

Logolite Entertainment, a new fully-integrated motion picture production company, based in Beverly Hills, California, is currently offering students of the world's top film programs a chance to compete for an opportunity to have their material produced*.

Contestants may submit full-length feature screenplays, of any genre, which will be read and reviewed by a professional industry board comprised of directors, producers, executives, and actors. 3 scripts will be selected for the final round which will include an interview with the writer and discussion of their vision, writing sample, and other pertinent information. The winner will be selected from among those contestants and will be offered the chance to option into a development deal with Logolite Entertainment and possibly secure a future writing and/or directing position.

Please post the attached .pdf poster in your schools and encourage faculty to discuss the contest with their students. This is a wonderful opportunity to discover new talent, for students to break into the industry, and for film programs to gain notoriety.

If you have any questions please contact us, via email or telephone.

Sincerely,

Christopher Sepulveda
