Her poems, essays and short stories have been published in many magazines and anthologies such as the New Yorker, Poetry, Atlantic Monthly, Harpers, Ploughshares, Agni, and others. Earthwinds Editions is proud to present this book length collection.

Here is what some writers have said about her work.

"Kathleen Spivack's poems are rich in feeling and texture, compassionately aware, and vividly articulated." — Stanley Kunitz

"Kathleen Spivack's poems are direct, visceral, and immediate, studded with images that have the look and feel of fresh paint. She has an ear attuned to speech as we hear it, an eye that flinches at nothing..." — John Malcolm Brinnin

"...takes risks that would daunt any poet...a real woman emerges idiosyncratic, domestic, and universal at the same time."

— Ruth Whitman

"...a luminescent intensity... the writer's work is compact, imagistic, and the words catch, spoken or read...." — Los Angeles Times

"She is passionate, never sentimental, lucid in the narratives of her poems, and always well crafted...What makes her poems so memorable is their ruthless honesty..." — Robert Peters

"Mrs. Spivack is one of the best poets in English of her generation..."

— William Alfred, Abbott Lawrence Lowell
Professor of the Humanities, Harvard University
