

The Mellon Group for Asian/American Literary & Cultural Studies in the 21st Century and the Center for Ideas & Society present:

Greg Robinson &
Elena Tajima Creef

MINE OKUBO: FOLLOWING HER OWN ROAD

Professors Robinson (University of Quebec at Montreal) and Creef (Wellesley College) will be showing slides and discussing their book on artist and activist Mine Okubo, the author of Citizen 13660, a textual and pictorial account of Japanese American internment, published in 1946. It is widely regarded as a forerunner of the graphic novel and a key text in Asian American and feminist literature.

Monday, 9 March 2009
3:30-5:00

English Department conference room 2212

Contact T. Yamamoto for information

Light refreshments served

