

Lectureships in the UC Merced Writing Program
School of Social Sciences, Humanities, and Arts
University of California, Merced

Description: Located in the San Joaquin Valley of Central California, UC Merced is the tenth University of California campus and will begin instruction in Fall 2005. UC Merced is seeking experienced teachers of composition to staff both lower and upper division writing courses, including required lower division composition courses and writing-intensive sections of the required freshman Core Course. Other courses include ESL and Subject A. See www.ucmerced.edu for further information about the campus and community.

Qualifications: a record of teaching excellence; experience teaching students of varying abilities, including ESL students; a record of scholarly achievement pertinent to the teaching of writing preferred. Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree preferred; exceptions may be made for comparable experience. Full and part-time appointments are available. Full-time Lecturers hired in this search may receive up to two-year contracts with possibility of renewal. Salaries vary with training and experience and include full benefits. Terms and conditions of employment are subject to UC policy and any appropriate collective bargaining agreement.

The University of California at Merced is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, staff, and students. UC Merced is particularly interested in candidates who have experience working with faculty, staff, and students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to higher education for disadvantaged and underrepresented students.

To Apply: Please visit our website:
http://jobs.ucmerced.edu/view_academic_position.faces?positionId=62.

Application Deadline: Review of applications will begin on February 28, 2005. Search closes April 30, 2005.

For additional information:
Dean Kenji Hakuta
209-724-4335