

KELLY GATES

ANN COULTER AND THE WOMEN OF THE NEW RIGHT

Who is Ann Coulter and what function does she serve for the New Right?

Lecture

Thursday November 2nd

1:00 PM to 2:30 PM

HMNSS 1500

Roundtable

Friday November 3rd

Noon—1:30 PM

HMNSS 2212

(English Department Conference Room)

Sponsored by:
Center for Ideas & Society
Film & Visual Culture
Television & New Media

Flyer design Rebecca K. O'Connor

This talk will explore these questions, arguing that the desire to dismiss Coulter as trivial and irrelevant misses the importance of her "author function" - the way in which her attacks on a caricatured form of "liberalism" are packaged together with her claims to "public intellectual" status and her celebrity good looks to fuel the culture wars, mobilize factions of the conservative base, and move political debate rightward.

Kelly Gates is Assistant Professor of Media Studies at Queens College, CUNY. Her scholarly interests include visual culture, cultural policy studies, and the politics of surveillance and new media technologies.