

PARIS,
JE T'AIME

"A slam-dunk for cineastes, romantics, and Francophiles."

-Marrit Ingman
Austin Chronicle

Tuesday,
April 29th
7:30 PM
Metropolitan University
Village Cinemas

"Paris, je t'aime is a patchwork of eighteen short films by different directors. Each one had to tell a story located in one of Paris' "arrondissements" in less than five minutes and on a relatively tight budget. This atypical collective film bears the hallmark of major international filmmakers and the names of stellar actors such as Natalie Portman, Gena Rowlands, Elijah Wood, Ben Gazzara and Catherine Deneuve. Although they are all different in style, the films find a unity in the theme that they explore. They all tell a story about the sometimes fragile relationships that bind people who have recently met or who have known each other well."

- tourneesfestival@facecouncil.org

GENERAL ADMISSION: $7
STUDENTS & SENIORS: $5
(with valid I.D.)

The Tournées Festival was made possible with the support of the Cultural Services of the French Embassy and the French Ministry of Culture (CNC)

Sponsored By: CHASS and the UCR departments of: Comparative Literature and Foreign Languages, Creative Writing, Women's Studies, and Media and Visual Culture.

CONTACT: anna.guti002@gmail.com