

Student Conduct Ready Advisor Program

SCAIP is starting the Student Conduct Ready Advisor Program. The purpose of the program is to recruit and train members of the UCR community (any student, faculty, or staff member) to be a Student Conduct Advisor. A student who has been alleged to have violated a policy under the University of California Policies Applying to Campus Activities, Organizations and Students, Revised May 17, 2002 has the right to have an advisor present with him/her during the conduct process. Students often would like to have an advisor but don't know who or how to ask. The advisor can be anyone of the student's choosing, not directly involved in the alleged incident.

We believe having advisors available who are more familiar with the student conduct and academic integrity processes will better serve the students and the UCR campus community. The time commitment for serving as advisor will vary depending on the complexities of the student's case. To serve as part of the Student Conduct Ready Advisor Program, individuals are asked to participate in a training session consisting of an overview of the student conduct and academic integrity processes, and resources available to students going through those processes. Upon completion of the training, individuals will have their name and contact information added to a referral list kept in SCAIP and made available to students requesting an advisor.
