WSU Position # R-10651

Short Ad Copy:

Assistant Professor of Honey Bee and Pollinator Research and Extension

The Department of Entomology in the College of Agricultural, Human, and Natural Resources Sciences at Washington State University (WSU) is seeking a dynamic and problem-solving Researcher and Extension scientist to join an extraordinary team of scientists and Extension experts working across multiple disciplines. As an integral part of this team, we are looking to fill a 12-month, tenure-track (assistant professor rank) research/Extension and teaching position to begin August 1, 2024, or as negotiated, at the WSU Dept. of Entomology at the WSU-Prosser Irrigated Agriculture Research and Extension Center and Othello Honey Bee and Pollinator facility. The successful applicant will develop a nationally recognized and regionally relevant program focused on honey bee and native pollinator health.

This position should successfully blend Research and Extension duties. The successful candidate will develop a nationally recognized, pollinator Research and Extension education program and develop a statewide, science-based, pollinator education plan to educate beekeepers, agricultural producers, land managers, licensed pesticide applicators, other professionals, and the public focused on agricultural systems in Washington. Programs must be based on stakeholder needs and effectively integrate research and Extension and be consistent with the mission of the WSU Department of Entomology and CAHNRS Office of Research. The incumbent will have teaching responsibilities in the Department of Entomology

Screening of applications begins January 2, 2024. To apply, visit https://wsu.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/WSU\_Jobs/details/Honey-Bee-and-Pollinator-Health-Assistant-Professor\_R-10651?q=r-10651. Applications must include the following materials: (1) a cover letter, (2) a current curriculum vitae, (3) teaching statement, (4) extension and outreach philosophy, (5) statement on contributions to equity and diversity (guidelines: <https://hrs.wsu.edu/wp-content/uploads/2020/02/Guidelines-for-Contributions-to-Equity-Diversity-and-Inclusion-Statements-1.pdf>), and (6) the names and contact information for three people willing to serve as references. The cover letter should address all the required and preferred qualifications for the position and include your areas of expertise and research interests.
