

RESEARCH SEMINAR SERIES

School of Public Policy

Racialized Categorical Misalignment in Immigration Systems: Exclusions and Inequalities

Tuesday, December 3
INTS 1128
10:00 - 11:30 a.m.

About the event:

State-created categories, such as the various legal statuses into which immigrants are classified, have powerful effects over a lifetime and even multigenerational. These categories are not neutral or objective; they reflect gender, race, and class ideologies such that they create and sustain enduring inequalities. Furthermore, state-created categories often do not capture immigrants' lived realities, leading to misalignments, omissions, and in-betweenness. The talk will illustrate these points with empirical examples from various cases.

Cecilia Menjivar,

Distinguished Professor

Dorothy L. Meier

Social Equities Chair,

Department of Sociology
University of California, Los Angeles

Link to a Related Paper

RSVP via

spp-menjivar.eventbrite.com

Free and open to the public.