

Department of Anthropology

ANTH 141W:

Sociocultural Perspectives on Graduate Futures

Practical Graduate Application Assignments

Designed to support students in applying to their chosen degree program while learning about the social and cultural dynamics of preparing for a graduate education.

Completely Online

This course is designed to meet your needs with a combination of asynchronous (pre-recorded lectures and activities) on Tuesdays and synchronous (live) online instruction on Thursdays.

Bonus: A 2-for-1 Course

Partnered with Writing Across the Curriculum (WAC), this 2-fo-1 course can fulfill the 3rd quarter writing requirement for graduation.

FALL 2025
T/Th
9:30-10:50am

Any Questions?

Email Instructor: Jessica Bradford
jbrad044@ucr.edu

ANTH 141W is a 4-credit online writing intensive course that balances social science research with practical guidance on application to graduate/ professional programs beginning in the fall of 2025! * Funded by UC Office of the President*